Providing for Queensland's Ageing Population Beyond 2010

Australia's population is ageing at a significant rate. According to the 2010 Intergenerational Report released by the Treasury Department, between now and 2050 the number of older Australians aged 65 – 84 years is expected to more than double and the number of Australians aged 85 and over is expected to more than quadruple from 0.4 million people today to 1.8 million in 2050.

Where will older Australian's live, what infrastructure is required and how will the Government and development industry meet their needs?

At this workshop you will hear from five industry and Government experts as they share with you the information you need to meet the needs of this increasing demographic.

Our speakers include:

- Andrew Giles, Chief Executive Officer – Retirement Village Association Ltd
- Gary White, Deputy Director-General, Planning Group – Department of Infrastructure and Planning (invited)
- Paul Melville, Joint Managing Director – Halcyon Management Pty Ltd
- Justin Laboo, Executive General Manager, Retirement – Aveo Live Well
- Mark West, Partner – McCullough Robertson
