Brisbane

The Institute's Mentoring Program is designed to build industry connections and provide property industry career advice and support to future leaders and developers.

With two intakes per year, the program is an exclusive opportunity for participants to develop strong professional connections that help them solidify their place in Queensland's property industry.

Targeted towards young property professionals in their early to mid-career, Mentors and Mentees are expertly matched by the Institute and are encouraged to meet a minimum of five times face-to-face over the course of five months. Participants also participate in three site visits at UDIA Queensland member projects so they can keep their finger on the pulse. Due to the popularity of the program, places are extremely limited.

“I found the mentoring program a fantastic tool to gain access to industry leaders and developers who are currently active in the market which would otherwise not be possible.”

“I was really happy with the mentor I was matched with and can tell that you had put a lot of thought into what I said I was looking for and who would work best with me.”
