

PD for us

Bespoke courses for your organisation

PD for us offers businesses the opportunity to customise their professional development needs with a tailor-made program delivered by industry experts.

Companies can identify a series of 'topics' and or 'soft skills' required to meet the knowledge gap in their organisation and UDIA Queensland will curate a bespoke program. Working to the provided parameters, the Institute will secure the speakers and take care of the logistics. PD for us is for businesses or teams looking to upskill and take advantage of the Institute's network of property industry experts.

Example topics

Property industry introduction

An overview of the property industry including an intro into the key players, how the industry works and the interaction with Government.

Building high performing teams

You've curated a group of high performing individuals – how do you create an environment where they can each continue to thrive, but as a team?

Effective communication

How to communicate effectively with internal and external stakeholders by using an assertive style of communicating.

Avoiding burnout and building resilience

Identify the signs and learn new strategies to reduce the risk of burnout in your team. Implement strategies to build a resilient team.

Testimonial

"Thank you all for the time you took today with organising and pulling the sessions together, as well as your expertise in delivering some really engaging discussions with the Councillors and Staff.

On the way out of the session this afternoon, I had some really positive discussions with the Councillors with regard to the sessions and the staff are already thinking through some of the developer and consultant perspectives that were shared throughout the day. I think the shared understanding that communication is the centre of a lot of success for all of us landed really well and gives us some comfort for where we're taking the teams."
